Senior Project Architect – Defence focus

DesignInc is a medium-sized architectural firm in the heart of Melbourne CBD. We have a strong history of excellent quality projects in a wide range of typologies. Firmly believing in creating a healthy environment not only for the people who inhabit our buildings, we also pursue a healthy environment for ourselves. To do this we have developed a very flexible work environment as well as investing in team building and ongoing learning. Additionally, we strive to relentlessly pursue better outcomes in all aspects of our projects, challenge the status quo, and ensure we are improving the way we do things. We do not measure success on increasing business. This role would suit a senior architect with 10–15+ years relevant experience. The role will involve contract administration of a large-scale defence redevelopment on the Mornington Peninsula including multiple building typologies as well as development of other defence opportunities.

Joining a small and well-established defence team, you will also be part of the wider Healthy Communities group. Ongoing career development, a commitment to working in defence and a supportive environment will ensure this role provides significant opportunity for growth.

To be successful for this position you will need:

- 10–15+ years of industry experience with a particular focus on defence or similar fields
- Evidence of designing, leading and delivery of defence or similar projects
- Demonstrate a working knowledge of Revit and Aconex
- Displayed an ability to lead small technical teams, provide solutions and deliver large projects
- Proven construction management experience with tier 1 builders advantageous
